

Region Authority Corp Partners with Docebo for Intelligent, End-to-End Telecom Training

PHILADELPHIA, 17 March 2020 - Region Authority Corporation \(RAC\), a leader in telecommunications infrastructure consulting, planning, training, and management, today announced a strategic partnership with Docebo, a global enabler of AI-powered e-learning. Together they will offer 15 essential telco-focused courses to help enterprises embrace new technologies and accelerate innovation.

“We are very pleased to share our wealth of knowledge in this dynamic sector, integrating our training with Docebo’s unique AI-based software,” said Shuayb Greenaway, CEO of RAC. “This will allow companies to accelerate training, stay ahead of the competition, and deliver enhanced services to their customers.”

RAC’s deep-dive learning portfolio encompasses 2G–4G refresher courses, 5G wireless technology, FTTx networks, distributed antenna systems (DAS), UAVs (drones), and health and safety in telco environments. Providing these courses through the Docebo Learning Platform enables companies to automate their training while offering an intuitive format that increases learning efficiency and effectiveness.

All courses provided by RAC have been developed by subject matter experts using up-to-date information and best practices. Once completed, learners/employees will be comfortable working with the technologies and applying best practices during their workday. The online learning can be monitored by administrators, enabling them to see how their workforce is using the information covered.

“At Docebo, we consistently partner with customers that are leading their industry and accelerating innovation,” said Docebo CRO, Alessio Artuffo. “This new partnership with RAC represents an exciting opportunity to play a role in providing the telecom industry with an intuitive and engaging learning experience.”
